

Peleeón

Peruvian Organic Cotton

Fibers and Fashion for the Future are the core of our DNA, and the future is for us to create if we think and act responsibly.

Peleón Organic Cotton & Garments is a vertically integrated textile production facility that transforms our cotton and alpaca raw materials collected under organically and fair trade regimes. Our clients may choose to visit the fields themselves, as they are the final link on the long chain of transparency and due diligence. When production is literally “in the mill,” we invite buyers and brand managers to witness the process first hand to document the entire production process. When this is not possible, as during the Covid Pandemic, our quality control team may take the images for you in order to “transparentize” the links needed to control the chain.
